Efficient Street Committee and Superintendent.

The completion of replacing West Main street has left all the approaches to the city with the exception of Jackson street, in good presentable shape. The work, which was authorized by a special meeting of the electors, who appropriated two thousand dollars for the purpose some months ago, has consisted of giving the roadway a coating of gravel, pressed down by the roller, and the road rounded up where necessary. The work was done inside the appropriation, and while it is possible that a small amount of repair work may be needed at the upper end of the street in the spring, the road is practically completed. Superintendent Sumner has done excellent work on the city streets this year. The street committee has been most efficient and gives much time to their work.

The directors of the Y. M. C. About $2,500 is needed for the work, and half of that amount has been raised already. Ten teams of ten men each will meet at the association next Monday for a noon lunch and begin a three-day campaign for the money, meeting at lunch every noon to report. This will average $25 for each man to obtain, and it is confidently expected that the full sum will be raised.

NO PRECONCEIVED PLAN TO MONOPOLIZE TRANSPORTATION

Mellen Says Growth of New Haven Road Was a Process of Evolution.

New York, Dec. 9.—There never was any "preconceived" plan on the part of the directors of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad to monopolize the transportation traffic of New England, Charles S. Mellen testified today.

The growth of the New Haven system, he said, was a process of evolution and a consequence of an attempt to give New England an efficient transportation system.

The former president thus epitomized at the trial of the eleven former directors of the road the defendants' plea that they are not criminally guilty of conspiracy to violate the Sherman law.

"I never conspired in any way, shape or manner," said Mr. Mellen. "If any members of my board had any such purposes, they were remarkably successful in concealing it from me."

What impelled the New Haven to enlarge its system, he said, was the necessity of controlling more business on properties already acquired and to meet the demand of the public for more and better facilities.

The New Haven would rather have waited before taking in some properties, he testified, "but even if forced."

"I was attempting to build up for New England an efficient system of transportation," he said, "to secure efficient mileage to enable the cost of the terminals, which was something tremendous, to be distributed over as large a mileage as possible. Each day's work brought forth the consideration of controlling more business on properties already acquired and to meet the demand of the public for more and better facilities."

FREE PASS CHARGE BROUGHT AGAINST TWO RAILROADS.

Louisville & Nashville, and Nashville, Chattanooga & St. Louis Roads.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Senator Lea of Tennessee petitioned the interstate commerce commission today to investigate charges that the Louisville and Nashville and Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis roads, furnish free passes to Tennessee public officials "to seduce and corrupt" them in violation of the interstate commerce act.

The petition refers to the commission's investigation several months ago into practices of the two roads and says that all the unlawful and corrupt practices which the commission found they had pursued still are being persisted in.

"This," says the petition, "is particularly true with reference to the free pass abuses."

Included in the petition is a portion of one of the commission's reports setting forth that the value of the actual aggregate travel on free passes over the two roads amounts to hundreds of thousands of dollars.

"Said free passes," declared the petition, "are being furnished by the two respondent railroads to the amount of hundreds of thousands of dollars each year to persons who use the same in making interstate journeys within the limits of the state of Tennessee and other states, when such persons are public officials holding positions of honor and trust in said states or the kindred and friends of such officials whom said respondents hope to seduce and corrupt to the advantage of respondents."

The senator charges that passes are granted for interstate as well as intrastate journeys and says he has reason to believe that important and influential shippers and other patrons of the two carriers have received the same sort of favors. He declares that this results in unjust discrimination and prejudice to passengers who pay the full fare and argues that the passes were cut off the net cost of service would be less and rates could be lowered.

The petition, Senator Lea says, is filed on his own behalf as a citizen of Tennessee and on behalf of all of the people of Tennessee. It is signed also by Nashville attorneys.
